The 2004 Fulbright-OAS Ecology Program

The Office of Public Affairs (OPA) of the American Embassy in Kingston would like to bring to your attention information regarding the 2004 Fulbright-OAS Ecology Program. The Western Hemisphere Fulbright Program, under the auspices of the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, announces the availability of scholarships for graduate study in the United States in fields related to ecology and the environment.

For the third year, the program emphasizes the importance of environmental preservation and sustainable development region-wide. In the selection process, emphasis will be placed on candidates who are both academically promising and who have the potential to make a difference in their fields. The ecology program targets people who can work across disciplinary lines and national borders to influence environmental policy and practice.

The Fulbright-OAS Ecology Program offers grants to individuals from Latin America, the Caribbean, and Canada in the natural sciences, social sciences, and public policy study multi-disciplinary approaches to environmental preservation and sustainable development. The goal of the initiative is to develop a well-prepared cadre of environmental professionals in the hemisphere who, upon completion of their studies, will return to their institutions to share their expertise with colleagues while maintaining contact with each other.

Attached is a flyer which provides information about this Fulbright-OAS Program.
